THE DOORS OF CONGRESS CLOSED UNITE AFTER THE HOLIDAYS,

Senator Washburn Palls in an Attempt to Have a Day Fixed for Voting on the Anti-Option Bill - The Case Against Gen, Adam presented by other Senators, and were all referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

Mr. Perkins (Rep., Kan.) introduced a bill to enable the people of Oklahoma and of the Indian Territory to form a constitutional and State government and to be admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states. Referred.

The McGarraban bill was taken up, and Mr. Bunton (Dem., Va.) concluded his argument in favor of its passage over the President's veto. Several Senators intend to speak in opposition, and on that account a suggestion to have a day and hour fixed for voting on it after the holidays did not meet with favor. The bill, however, retains its privileged place in the morning hour.

A like attempt was made in regard to the Anti-Option bill after Mr. Peffer (Pop. Kan.) had finished his speech in its favor, but as objection was made. Mr. Washburn (Rep., Minn.) declared his intention of pressing the bill for consideration and for a vote after the reassembling of the Senate, even at the expense of a long session. He asserted that the bill was favored by a considerable majority of Senators, by nine-tenths of the whole people, and by ninetr-nine hundredths of the farmers of the country.

After a short executive session the Senate at 3 P. M.) adjourned till Wednesday, Jan. 4.

No business of importance was done in the House, as no quorum was present, and at 12:15 it adjourned until Jan. 4, 1803.

The President to day acted on the case of van, U. S. N., who was recently tried by court martial and sentenced to dismissal. He was charged with culpuble neglect of duty and with embezziement, and was convicted of the first charge and sequitted of the second. The Fresident approved the sentence, but on the recommendation of the Secretary of the Navy that clemency be exercised, he mitigated it as follows: "To be reduced in rank so that his name shall be placed at the foot of the list of passed assistant paymasters of the navy, and to be suspended from rank and duty on furlough pay for a period of three years, during which time he shall retain his place at the foot of the list of passed assistant paymasters." van. One of those peculiar bills that occasionally find their way into Congress was introduced to-day (by request) by Senator Mitchell of Oregon. It is a bill to prohibit electro-magnetizing, and hypnotizing human beings &c. In brief, it provides that any person who, anywhere within the jurisdiction of the United States, shall apply a current of electricity upon a person for the purpose of affecting another, or which does so affect, shall be guilty of a crime, punishable by death, and that any person having knowledge of such current having been applied who fails to notify the proper authorities shall be punished by a fine of not less than $5,000 nor more than $20,000, or by imprisonment ranging from two years to the period of one's natural life. find their way into Congress was introduced States Treasury has advanced a new theory in regard to the conscience contributions reevived at the department. He said he had no doubt that a large portion of the money returned to the Treasury, on the ground that it was not rightly the property of the sender, was due to overpayments by tellers. He thought it right that the public generally should be informed that all mistakes made by Government and bank tellers. In the way of overpayments, result in a corresponding loss in their compensation, and in nowise affects the resources of their employers. He gave many instances where Government tellers had inadvertently paid out more than was called for, and had been compelled to rectify the mistake out of their own pockets. He mentioned this solely in the interest of the tellers, in the hope that it would be remembered by all persons whose conscience troubled them concerning money received in this way, so that it might be returned to the officer who had been compelled to pay for his carelessness, rather than to the Government or bank which had been already reimbursed for the error.

Secretary Foster of the State Department has been informed of the appointment of Gen. Casar Canevaro as Peruvian Minister at Washington, which mission has been vacant for sometime. Gen. Canevaro is one of the most frominent citizens of Peru, and has been a candidate for Fresident of that republic. He was one of the leading military spirits in the last war between Chili and Peru, and made a gallant record. He will start for the United States on the 29th inst.

Secretary Charles Foster has compromised the claim of the United States against Gen. Adam Badeau for $1,000. While Consul-Genstalst Havana Gen. Badeau retained $5,000 in steam of the fees allowed by the accounting officer of the Government. He claimed officer of the Government. He claimed that the disallowance was wrong, but the United States instituted suit to recover the United States instituted suit to recover the full amount. Last May the surfaces of Gen. Badeau paid into the Treasury $500 as the sum agreed upon to relieve them of responsibility assureties. The case was referred to the folicitor of the Treasury, and on his coinfion that the full amount could not be recovered a compromise was effected by the payment by Gen. Badeau of $500, thus closing the case.

The United States Government telegraph and telephone line between Assatesque and Cape Charles, Va., a distance of ninety milos, has been completed and put in operation. It supplies a connecting link to lines that run at either and to tape Henlopen and Lowes, Del., making a complete line 165 miles long along the most dangerous coast of the Atlantic. The line was constructed by the Life Saving berwice at a cost of $12,500, and includes twelve miles of submarine cable. It will be operated by the employees of the service without entailing additional cost.

Washington, Dec. 22.—There was less than a quorum of Senators present when the day's proceedings began. Many had left the city for the helidays, and among those was Vice-President Merica, in whose absence the chair was eccupied by Mr. Manderson (Rep., Neb.), President ure term.

Among the papers presented and referred were joint resolutions of the Vermont Legislature requesting Congress to enact laws establishing a uniform policy of immigration and of migration from State to State.

In presenting a batch of petitions asking postponement of the Anti-Option bill, Mr. Cockrell Dem., Mo.) spoke of them as stereotyped petitions, marked with fraud and hardly entified to be recognized as the kind of petitions that ought to be presented to the Senator, Many other petitions of the same kind were presented by other Senators, and were all referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

Senator Gorman smiled to-day when the suggestion was made to him that the Democrata might not care to have control of the Senate at the cost of a combination with the Populist Senators. Said he:

"If any one imagines we don't want the Senate they make a very serious mistake. We not only want the organization of the Senate, but I am quite confident we shall have it."

In answer to a question as to what the Democratic steering committee is doing about the debatable Legislatures in the West the Senator replied:

"We are taking things easy and watching the other fellows. The Benublicans are considerably exercised over our determination to look after our own interests in those States, and they are holding caucutes a every other day now to offset the effect of the meeting we had some time ago.

The Senator declined to go into details as to what is being done in behalf of the Democrats, but he intimated that the interests of the party are not being neglected in those States where the Legislatures are closs.

TWO IMMIGRATION BILLS.

One Provides for Quarantine Abroad and the Other Suspends Imhilgration for a Tear, WASHINGTON, Dec. 22,-The joint Committee on Immigration to-day found itself unable to agree upon a measure, and decided to report two bills one to the House and the other to the Senate. That reported to the House is the bill prepared by Mr. Stump of Maryland, and the one presented to the Senate is Senator Chandler's bill.

Mr. Stump's bill establishes foreign quarantines at which alien immigrants are to be de-tained at least seven days before being allowed to embark, and at which their clothing and baggage is to be thoroughly disinfected by the most improved methods before they start for the United States. Two experienced surgeons are to be employed at each quarantine station, who are to furnish to the United States Consul a list of immigrants allowed to embark, stating that the quarantine regulationshave been complied with and that the immigrants are in a healthy condition. Full power is given the President to suspend immigration from all countries for such length of time as in his judgment the safety of the of time as in his judgment the safety of the public may require. Owners or agents of vessels violating the provisions of the act are liable to a fine of $5,000, for which the vessel violating the law is to be held as security until the fine is raid.

Senator Chandler's bill, which was introduced to-day, suspends and prohibits for one year from March 1, 1855, the admission of allen immigrants for residence in the United States, as now aboved under the act of March, 1851, except those coming from American countries who have been clizens and residents therein for one year previous to their departure. The Secretary of the Treasury is directed to make and issue rules and regulations for the enforcement of the prohibitions of the act, which shall not hinder or delay the admission of returning American clizens or of aliens coming only as visitors or for a temporary sopoura in the United States, contrary to the provisions of the act shall be subject to benalties, and all persons who shall bring, land, or sid in bringing persons shall bring, land, or sid in bringing be believed to benalties, and all persons who shall bring. In that the matter was of such importance that there ought to be, at the reassembling of Congress in January, an immediate consideration of it. He should therefore ask the Senate, on the first day of the reassembling, to take up the bill for consideration and action.

Senator Hill of New York, a member of the Committee on Immigration, said that he did not concur in the report. There was one learning the holiday recess to gather additional information. ## MR. CLEVELAND'S BODY GUARD.

When President He Rarely, if Ever, Went Out Alone - A Dread of Cranks. WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.-The announcement that Mr. Cleveland is to have a body guard constantly in attendance upon him until he comes to Washington to be inaugurated causes no surprise here. During his occupancy of the White House he rarely, if ever, went out alone. When Col. Dan Lamont was not with him one of the big police detectives on duty at the White House invariably kept within speaking distance. Mr. Cleveland seldom indulged in pedestronism, and it is said that not more than four times during the four years he was President did he appear among the promenadors on the streets. Whenever he had occasion to visit the Capitol a detective was always detailed to escort him to and from his carriage. He frequently told his friends that he has the greatest dread of cranks, who

Almost every night, along toward midnight, he made his appearance at the front door and demanded an interview with the President. Of course, admittance was dealed him, where upon he invariably left along, incoherent communication written on old mans and old handbills and public documents, which hanked should be sent to the President without delay. This crank looks as though he might be daugerous. He fancies that the Covernment should aid him in carrying out some schome which he is unable to explain intelligently. The police have locked him up several times as a "vag," but as soon as his term expires he comes to the front again in the same attire, and continues his visits to the White House, The detectives on duty there have instructions not to allow him to enter the house, and they keep him under surveillance all the time.

LATEST CABINET MAKING.

The Hon. Don M. Dickinson and Col. Daniel tors yesterday. Mr. Cleveland spent most of the day at his law offices in the Mills building. Mr. Dickinson has been in Washington. It is to New York, Mr. Cleveland asked him to onter the Cabinet as Secretary of the Treasury. The Senator replied that he could not see his way clear to undertaking the task. He has been a member of the Senate Finance Committee for a number of years, and during his life in Washington he has given most of his attention to figuree and tariff. Cleveland has always had a high admiration for Senator Carlisle's keenness in these matters, and he declined to accept the Senator's declination of the Treasury portfolio. He asked the Senator to consider the matter; to talk it over with his friends and associates in Washington, and in other ways endeavor to arrange matters so that he could become Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Cleveland is still awaiting Senator Carlisle's reply. The Senator's term in the Senate expires March 3, 1805, but his kentucky constituents would return him as a Senator as long as he lives. One of the inducements held out to Senator Carlisle for the ury portfolio is the career of John Sherman, the Republican Senator from Ohie, who resigned his seat in the Senate to become Secretary of the Treasury in Hayes's Caoinet. With the advent of President Garfield's Administration the Ohio Republicans prometly returned Mr. Sierman to his seat in the Senate. Should Senator Carlisle accept the invitation to become Secretary of the Treasury. Representative W. C. P. Breckingings would like to excupy Mr. Carlisle's seat in the Senate. The other Democratic Senator from Kentucky is the Hon. Joseph C. S. Blackburn of Versalies, whose ferm expires March 3, 1847.

The report, stronger than ever, was revived that the Hon. William C. Whitney's slatel for Secretary of State. Close friends of Mr. Whitney say that it would be a very difficult matter for him to decline Mr. Cleveland's invitation to enter the Cabinet, especially us its Premier.

The best forecast yet obtainable of the Cabinet is as follows:

Secretary of State-William C. Whitney of New York Secret any of the Treasury-John it Carlisle of tweintends &:

Formaster General -Isane Pusey Gray of Indiana Attomosylicanial - deepe formy of Winnington, bol. It may turn out, though, that Mr. Dickluson Republican Senator from Ohio, who resigned

It may turn out, though, that Mr. Diesinson may be induced to arrange matters so that he may be able to sit again with his former third at the Cahmet table. In that event Mr. Diesinson would undoubtedly occury his old seat as Postmaster-General. Excloss Gray of Indiana could easily be shifted to some other portfolio.

W. C. T. U. Delegates Shocked by a Galety Company's Posters. ROCHESTER, Dec. 22.- The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held its County Convention in the Park Avenue Church on Tuesday. While the delegates were on their way to and from the church they were shocked by the lithograph pictures of the London Uniety Company, now performing at the Academy of Company, now performing at the Academy of Music. The forms of the girls of the company were displayed with very scant drapery. The delegates called the attention of the Convention to the pictures, and a committee was appointed to tist. Mayor Curran and ask him to invoke the law to suppress the pictures. The Mayor directed the Superinteadent of Poles to investigate. A policeman was sent out this morning on a four of inspection and found nine indecent lithographs posted about the city. The manager of the bill-posting company was summoned to Police Headquarters and directed to destroy the offensive pictures. He premised to do so, and assured the police that no indecent pictures would be posted in the future.

INTER-CONTINENTAL R. R. THE PRELIMINARY STUDIES FOR A

All the Commissions Will Report that the Fraject is Femilie-Proposed Route Through the Tangle of the Cordilleras-A Work that Involved Much Hardship.

The preliminary surveys for the projected continental railroad to connect the republica of North America with those of Central and South America have been practically completed, and although the official reports have not yet been published, the three commissions have declared that a practicable route has been found, the engineering problems prosented by which in no instance exceed those encountered in the construction of the Canadian-Pacific and other trans-continental roads of North America; The route from Mexico through Central America down to the Costa Rica-Colombian frontier presents practically no problems whatever, and the section thence on to the city of l'anama has already been thoroughly surveyed by an independent projector, M. George de Polignae, who is at the present time regotiating with the Colombian towernment for a concession to construct a rallway between the city of David and Panama. The section between Panama and the valley of the Atrata has not been regularly surveyed, but the ground is already so well known that there is no necessity for any preliminary exploration. The South American commissions proceeded to Quito together. Whence they surveyed for the most practicable routes into that elevated city from the north and out of it toward the south; and these having been decided upon the commissions separated, one proceeding northward toward Colombia, and the other southward to Peru. One of the most important discoveries made was that the socalled linet of the Andes, the source of greatest apprehension, has proved to be by no means an Alexandrine affair, and on the whole it is understood that their report will indicate a route quite as practicable as that through Central America, although beset with greater engineering problems. These chiefly consist in steep grades and the construction of great bridges, or viaduets. The story of the work accomplished by the Cuzco Commission, which arrived at Lima, in Feru, in the early days of August-that is, all who were left of the Commission is a story of peculiar hardship and brave struggle against the forces of nature. When they left Quite there were eighteen members of the Commission, with fifty mules, and there arrived and J. D. Forster, and half a dozen mules. At the outset a large proportion of the Commissioners were stricken with the permissioners endemic fevers and other diseases peculiar to high tropical altitudes and many of them, including the chief, had to be invalided home. Trouble also broke out among the mules, to which may properly be added the frequent desertions of their peens. Thus by degrees did the stores and baggage grow less, until for many days they were compedled to travel with no other food than that affored by the dense forests through which they resolutely carried the survey. Thus they fared through the elevated regions of Leuador, until at length, toward the close of No. vember, Messes, Kelly, Wilson, and Forster, vember. Messes. Kelly, Wilson, and Forster, accompanied by only a few peops and mules, entered into Fernyian territory. Thus far, despite all obstacles, the route had been located and its practicability fully ascertained, and the undamned trip proceeded to the work of locating the Fernyian section.

Their descent into Fern was made by the western border of the Chinchipe to Chirmos, whomee they started for tunin across the open ratumas and arrived at Jacon about the middle of becember. Thence they made their way over the Channaya Eiver on rafts and carried the survey on as far as Choros, on the western tasks of the Maranon or Peruvian Amazon. This river, it is to be noted, even at this high point, is navigable for small steamers. The chevation is 2,700 feet above the level of the Minatic.

sheaten is 2.400 feet above the level of the Atlantic.

Nr. Kelly had hoped to be able to follow with his survey along the banks of the Maranon to the vicinity of Cerro de lasco, but on arriving at Camilo they found the route impracticable, the river turning at a considerable depth between practitions ravines; moreover, the whole surrounding region became utterly desolate, barren of vegetation, and without a vestige of minerals or products of any sort that might justify their surveying through such passes as the nature of the country alforded, Consequently they retraced their steps to the summits, and eventually succeeded in entrying the survey through places where they could keep to the maximum grades decided upon in endeavoring to carry the like by thota and Caramarca, always following as nearly as besside the head waters of the rivers.

continuous, the survey from Cainhambs, at companions.

Continuing the survey from Cajabamba, at about twy-try leagues from Boamachuco they envolutioned for the second time an elevation of the Cajabamba and Pacific. Hence they proceeded to the Department of La Liberiad, by war of Santiago de Chuco and Molicoata, on the Islance in the Department of Anachus, the latter heing one of the richest and auriferous regions in Feru. Corage was the next point made, where the explorers entered the magnificent callegon de Hualias, which they followed to liceary taking in en route the principal sattlements on the borders of Rio Santa, from Recusy they continued on to Hualianea, assending the Cordillera Bianea through the elevated pass of Querococha. It was found that it would be necessary to be necessary to filler the elevated pass of Querococha. It was found that it would be necessary to filler a there rices to an altitude of 10,300 foet. Mr. Kelly attained the summit in March, and although it was then midsummer the party were surrounded by snow. During the Southern winter, therefore, the climate there must be truly Arctic.

The expedition passed on from Hualianea to Queropalea, crossing another spur or the Cordillera, you which they carried the survey and
